Dear Guest

The effect of Covid-19 on our Tours – We are ready for you in Jersey!

With Covid 19 restrictions having been in force here in Jersey since March, the Jersey Government has just announced certain relaxations from the lockdown conditions.

What is clear however is that it's going to be a long time before the Island gets back to normal and I can welcome visitors here and on my tours. It is also probably going to be several months before travel links are restored to any significant extent.

Having said that, for those guests who have already booked on of my tours, and those who come to Jersey when those restrictions are lifted, we will be ready to welcome you.

Bearing in mind that even when travel restrictions are lifted, I expect that some social distancing will still be in force and/or expected by guests, and I therefore put the following in place:

I will only be taking private tours for family and/or friends groups who are not social distancing between themselves (i.e. it won't be a public tour and you won't find strangers joining it);

- I will have fitted clear acrylic screens around my seat (the driver's) in my vehicles so I can practise social distancing from you and enter and exit the vehicle by a separate door;
- The vehicles already have built in microphones to the rear so no problem hearing me in the front! You will still be able to view the TV screens in the vehicles which we use on tours;
- At stops, I will guide you at a distance and where we go, there will be no issue in achieving social distancing as required;
- The vehicles will be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected prior to each tour and we will carry hand sanitiser in the vehicle.

So I hope that when you are able to come to Jersey, I will be welcoming you with the best of Jersey hospitality and in a safe and secure manner!

I look forward to seeing you soon!
